

MacGregor Stocco is originally from Texas. He obtained a Bachelor's degree in Astrophysics from Williams College in Williamstown, Massachusetts. Following his undergraduate work, Mac entered the University of Virginia, in Charlottesville, Virginia, for graduate studies. He obtained two Master's degrees from UVA, the first in Sociology and a second in Urban and Environmental Planning. After graduation, Mac worked for one year as a planner for Orange County in central Virginia. He then spent a year at Harris County in Texas, working as a planner in the metropolitan area of Houston. Mac has spent the last two years working as a resource planner for the New Jersey Pinelands Commission, a southern New Jersey regional planning agency.

Mac met his wife, Janet, at Williams College. Janet is originally from Rome, Maine, graduating from Messalonskee High in 1992. Mac and Janet were married in Belgrade Lakes in 2000, and have two daughters: Grace, born in September 2004 and Anne, born in July 2006. Janet now works for the Judicial Branch of the State, in Augusta, and the Stocco family recently purchased a home in Belgrade.